

This version of Ecole Lenotre Cocktails Dinatoires et amuse-bouche is presented in French and English. Translated by Rebecca Reid. Under the names currently used, cocktail pieces and amuse-bouche, the Ecole Lenotre offers us delicious recipes for individual dishes served in small containers that are sober, modern and refined. For example, in mini-plates: salmon flower with black radish; in vodka glasses: chicken persille and foie gras; in Chinese spoons: salmon tartare; in eggshells: scrambled egg with fine herbs; in mini-pots: rabbit compote; in mini-bowls: scallops and spice marinere. Along with exotic recipes brought back from around the world; informal buffets (anchovy sauce, tapenade...): puff pastries, toasts and canapes; soups and consommés; basic recipes and accompanying sauces (virgin sauce, rouille sauce...). A harmonious, delicate cuisine thanks to which, as Paul Bocuse puts it, each and every reader will now be able to serve great recipes in dolls dishes. Created in 1970 by Gaston Lenotre, the Ecole Lenotre is the leading French training and proficiency school in the domain of the gastronomic arts, and has earned a world wide reputation. Delighted to perpetuate the image of French gastronomy at its highest level across the world, its team of teachers comprises talented men, some of whom proudly wear the title of Meilleur Ouvrier de France.
