

The football team in Smith Center, Kansas, holders of the nations longest high-school winning streak, embrace a philosophy of life taught by their legendary coach, Roger Barta: Respect each other, then learn to love each other and together we are champions. But as the Redmen embarked on a quest for a fifth consecutive state title, they faced a potentially destabilizing transition: the greatest senior class in school history had graduated, and Coach Barta was contemplating retirement. In Smith Center's population: 1,931 this changing of the guard was seismic. Hours removed from the nearest city, the town revolves around our boys in a way that goes to the heart of what America's heartland is today. New York Times sportswriter Joe Drape moved his family to Smith Center to discover what makes the team and the town an inspiration for miles around. And in a new afterword, Drape returns to Smith Center to chronicle even greater challenges as the streak enters its sixth year.
