

Entre enero y julio de 1919, tras la primera guerra mundial, dirigentes de todo el mundo llegaron a París para asistir a la Conferencia de Paz que pondría orden en el mundo. Los «tres grandes» (Estados Unidos, Francia e Inglaterra) querían, entre otras cosas, levantar a Europa de las ruinas, obtener reparaciones de Alemania, detener el avance de la Revolución rusa, y decidir sobre el destino de nuevas entidades políticas como Iraq, Yugoslavia o Palestina. La historia del siglo XX no se entendería sin comprender lo que ocurrió en esos seis meses. / After the war, men from all over the world converged in Paris for the Peace Conference. Kings, prime and foreign ministers with their advisers rubbed shoulders with journalists and lobbyists for a hundred causes. This book shows the personalities of the men who shaped the settlement. They tried to evenhand but goals could not be achieved by diplomacy.
